iPods / music devices are strongly discouraged; runners need to be aware of their surroundings at all times on the course. We do however encourage runners to carry their phones and capture the beautiful images and scenery that will present itself to you along the journey!

Can I run with my Dog/pet?

Our courses run through a variety of areas where Dogs are not permitted by local laws, as such, unfortunately we don't allow any Dogs/Pets to accompany you for our events. Service dogs are exempt from these rules.

Will there be any road crossings?

There will be road crossings during the event. Volunteer marshals will be in place at all road crossings. Please obey the marshal's instructions and be vigilant at all times. Runners must give way to traffic! Failure to comply will result in disqualification.

Will I be crossing train tracks?

Not at all! This year we altered all courses to avoid crossing the train tracks which is much safer for you, and much easier for coordinating our event start times!

Can I see a course map or download a course to my running watch?

We have provided a copy of all courses at the end of this information brief. You can view detailed maps of all courses on our plotaroute.com collection:

EVENT INFORMATION

All courses have been measured using GPS technology.

The course will be marked, and all efforts will be made to make it easy to follow.

Track surfaces will vary significantly throughout the course to include bitumen road, concrete path, grass, loose rocky trail, sand, tree roots, trail and everything in between.

The variation in terrain as well as the wonderful scenery is what makes this event so special.

Safety / Race Etiquette

Please respect all fellow runners, course marshals and volunteers. Slower runners please allow fellow competitors to pass where safe.

Will ambulance / first aid be available?

The Warrnambool Running Festival will have a First aid kit and Defibrillator available at the event hub should it be required, however no professional First Aid or medical personnel will be provided at the event. Competitors are advised to have up to date ambulance cover as Warrnambool Running Festival will not be responsible for any costs incurred if a participant requires further ambulance or medical care.

What happens if I injure myself during the race and need to withdraw?

Any injured runner should be assisted to the nearest aid station by fellow competitors.

Competitors unable to continue need to alert marshals at their nearest checkpoint and the race director is to be notified as soon as possible. In the case of an emergency, Marshalls are able to coordinate assistance.

Is the event insured?

Participants should note that public liability insurance exists for this event (Sportscover PMEL99/0120665), however it does not cover individual medical, ambulance cover or rescue costs. Should an entrant wish to transfer up to a higher distance then the participant will be required to pay the difference. CANCELLATION

In the case of forced cancellation of the Warrnambool Running Festival, due to extreme weather or unforeseen circumstances there will be a 50% refund.
